Dear Pat

eFlora Copyright – Record of Licensing Arrangements

Landcare Research is publishing eFlora, a definitive guide for identifying and describing New Zealand plants. You have agreed that Landcare Research may publish images of natural environment specimens owned by you, and which may be held in Te Papa online collections, in the eFlora publication.

The purpose of this letter is to record our agreement as to the Creative Commons license that you are releasing the images under and to record a "CC+ Protocol" concerning the attribution requirements for those images.

This agreement applies to images that you are the sole copyright owner of.

1. CC License: the images are provided under:

Attribution-NonCommercial CC BY-NC

2. The CC+ Protocol which we have agreed is:

Attributions of your images may be limited to "© P Brownsey CC BY NC".

We both acknowledge that this letter of agreement is intended to be made available consistent with the publication of eFlora and is to serve as the record of the CC+ protocol for attribution for any persons accessing the images. Accordingly, this letter of agreement is not confidential.

Yours sincerely

Andrew Trevelyan
